DAILY ITINERARY

DECEMBER 5TH – SATURDAY (DAY 1)

The tour begins as you fly into Paro Airport; Bhutan's only international airport. It's one of the world's most challenging, known as "the world's most dangerous flight landing". If you are lucky, you will have a glorious view of the snow-capped Himalayas.

Due to the mountainous terrain, the national airport is located in Paro, meaning that we still have a drive to Thimphu the nation's capital. Along the way, we will stop to view Tachog Monastery built in the 15th century by Thangthong Gyalpo, Popularly known as Lama Chazampa the Iron Bridge builder.

- Thang Thong Gyalpo (1385 – 1464) was a Monk from Tibet who came to Bhutan in 1433 looking for Iron Ore. • Thang Thong Gyalpo built 50 - 108 bridges across Tibet and Bhutan, out of which eight were built in Bhutan. His only surviving bridge here is located in Duksum. Interestingly he was also a physician, blacksmith, architect, and pioneering civil engineer. As well as being a reincarnation of Dolpopa Sherab Gyaltzen (a Buddhist master from Nepal), he was also known as the Madman of the Empty Valley.

Upon arrival into the capital we will take time to visit the:

- Memorial Chorten, is a monument dedicated to the Third King of Bhutan King Jigme Dorji Wangchuck. For any visitor to Bhutan, this memorial is a must as his late majesty was responsible for not only moving the county forwards to Democratization and modernization but allowing it to open up to foreign visitors. The Monument also contains some fantastic statues and paintings which provide a rare insight into Buddhist Philosophy.
- As we continue with our visit, we stop for the Weekend market located near the Wangchhu River. Thimphu's weekend market is by far the largest domestic market for the farmers in Bhutan. Farmers come from all over the country to sell their farm products here at this bustling market. With its wide assortment of fresh, organic produce; the Farmer's Market has become a favourite spot for not only the locals to gather but also an excellent location for people watching, photography or to submerge one's self into local life.
- Once we have checked into our hotel, we will be off for our first group dinner and to mix it up with the locals.

Meals: Lunch & Dinner.

After our first hearty breakfast we're straight out of our hotel for our tour around Thimphu the capital, Thimphu located in the western central area of Bhutan is now the largest city in this isolated country with a population of 115,000 people. Pre 1960 it was just a collection of small villages dotted across the valley until the 3rd Druk Gyalpo Jigme Dorji Wangchuck moved the capital from Punakha to here.

The first site to visit is one of the world's largest Buddhist statues

- Buddha Dordenma, this gigantic 52-meter statue is built in the form of the Shakyamuni (the Buddha) and completed in 2015 celebrating the 60th anniversary of fourth king Jigme Singye Wangchuck.
- Next, we visit Changangkha Lhakhang. This fantastic building is the oldest temple in the city being established in the 12th century. Its impressive fortress-like appearance atop a hilly ridge is a hum of activity as Locals come from all around to name their children and seek blessings from the protective deity Tamdrin.
- Drubthob Gompa Nunnery home to around 60 -70 Nuns obvious by their short hair, these pillars within the community play a vital role in the religious affairs of the area. The whole area is a must for visitors and photographers as the building offers excellent views over the (Sangaygang) of Thimphu valley.
- Tashi Cho Dzong, the final visit for the day has been the seat of Bhutan's Government since 1968 we will be allowed to visit this extraordinary place after office hours. From here you will also get a glimpse of the Palace of the present King, and the Queen observed nestled in the grounds nearby this area photography not allowed.
- We finish our day by visiting the local art gallery and weaving centre at Chamzamtog.

Meals: Breakfast, Lunch & Dinner

DECEMBER 7TH – MONDAY (DAY 3)

After another excellent breakfast, we load our tour bus as we prepared to leave the capital heading to Punakha the former capital of Bhutan, although not before stopping for a rather strange visit.

- National Postal Museum, this unique visit found at the heart of Thimphu, at first glance, it is home to the history of the postal service in Bhutan. But after a second glance it also contains scented, talking, and musical stamps and for those that wish they will also add your image to a stamp great for those postcards home.

As we drive onwards to Punakha, we stop for our many visits along the way.

- Punakha Dzong (palace of great happiness or bliss), this imposing building was built in 1637 by Shabdrung Ngawang Namgyal it is located between two large rivers Pho Chu (Male River) and Mo Chu (Female River). For many years until the time of the second king, it served as the seat of the Government. Inside the building, there are many historical relics, including materials captured during the battle with Tibet.
- Not far from the palace is the Punakha Suspension bridge. One of the longest suspension bridges in Bhutan, a nail-biting 148m high above the Po Chhu River. This amazing bridge is made even more special as it is draped with prayer flags; the bridge connects the town of Punakha and Punakha Dzong.
- We stop for another temple visit Chimi Lhakhang, built by Lama Drukpa Kuenley (The Divine Madman), in the year 1499. Legend has it that he subdued demons with his magical Thunderbolts and thus created the temple on site. This temple is worthy of a visit seeing the way lined with prayer flags placed there by many local ladies who visit in the hope of conceiving a child.

Meals: Breakfast, Lunch & Dinner.

DECEMBER 8TH – TUESDAY (DAY 4)

After breakfast, we head out for our hike to Khamsum Yulley Namgyal Chorten; we will walk for around one hour uphill through rice terraces as we go stopping to admire stunning views and picnic next to the river nearby river.

- Khamsum Yulley Namgyal Chorten is a newly built Stupa constructed at the bequest of her majesty the Queen Mother, Ashi Tshering Yangdon Wangchuck in 2004. This Chorten/ Stupa is unique in that it is not for community worship, educational or monastic purposes as with other Buddhist constructions. The Queen Mother built it for the protection of all living beings. The views from the top over the surrounding countryside are jaw-dropping and well worth the hike up.
- Sangchhen Dorji Lhuendrup nunnery is located on top of a hill overlooking the magnificent Punakha, Toebesa and Wangduephodrang valleys. For many, the temple is an accurate depiction of Bhutanese construction style expressing precious traditional values dating back to centuries. As we drive up the winding road, beautiful flowers line the way. The complex is home to a large bronze sculpture of Avalokiteshvara as well as housing other statues such as the 21 Taras, Padmasambhava, Buddha of Longevity, and Zhabdrung Ngawang. Sangchhen Dorji Lhuendrup Nunnery was constructed as a college for training nuns giving us an excellent opportunity to talk with its local students about life here and the study and commitment needed in their everyday life.
- This afternoon there is a Rafting Option for those that wish we will raft on one of the rivers around Punakha. Depending on the weather, it may be an exhilarating ride or a tame river relax. Both are enjoyable in the most beautiful area of Bhutan.

Meals: Breakfast, Lunch & Dinner.

DECEMBER 9TH – WEDNESDAY (DAY 5)

Today we are off and out early as we continue our adventure on to Phobjikha with much to see on the way.

- The valley of Wangdiphodrang which includes views of the Wangdiphodrang Dzong fortress (razed by fire in 2012), situated at the confluence of Mo Chu and Tang Chu rivers now under renovation built-in 1638 this imposing construction stands guard over the surrounding valley. Passing through this beautiful valley, we are rewarded with stunning views of traditional Bhutanese villages reminiscent of a long-ago national geographic article. This region is also well known for its craft people working with Bamboo and slate.
- Gangtey nature trek, we take this well know hike for around 90 mins trekking through the Phobjikha Valley passing local villages as we go. We walk from a hilltop overlooking Gangtey Goemba, heading downhill through flower meadows to Semchubara village and from there through beautiful forests and into the open valley. After passing a Stupa and Khewa Lhakang (built in the 15th century by Tibetan sculptors), the trek ends at the local community school. While in Gangtey we visit Gangtey Gompa
- After Lunch we continue to explore the Phobjikha valley, even stopping by the roosting ground of the Rare Black-necked Cranes in winter and visit the Crane Information centre.

Meals: Breakfast, Lunch & Dinner.

DECEMBER 10TH – THURSDAY (DAY 6)

Today we complete our circuit travelling back to Paro, although not before more adventures along the way.

- Dochula pass from here we view the Druk Wangyal Chortens -- these 108 Chortens (stupas) were built by the Royal Queen Mother Ashi Dorji Wangmo Wangchuck, in the memory of the Bhutanese soldiers killed by Indian insurgents in 2003. If the weather is with us and the skies are clear, you can catch a glimpse of the beautiful Himalayas in their full glory and grandeur.
- After lunch, we visit Ta Dzong (built-in 1656 and renovated in 1968), this ancient watchtower, which now houses the National Museum. Below the museum is the Paro Rimpung Dzong (Heap of Jewels) built-in 1646 it was the centre of civil and religious authority in this valley. A short walk takes you to the base of the dzong and across a traditional cantilevered, covered bridge.
- Srongsen Gampo was a Tibetan king who married the Chinese princess Wenchen in 641 this cemented Chinese Tibetan relations at that time. In 659 when Srongsen was a small boy, the story goes that he decided to build 108 Temples in a single day these temples were to pin an evil ogress to the earth forever. Six of these temples are known to lie in Bhutan, most prominent of them are Jambay Lhakhang and Kichu Lhakhang in Paro. Kichu Lhakhang is said to hold the left foot of an Ogress and Jambay Lhakhang houses pins from her left knee, both of which we will stop to visit.

Meals: Breakfast, Lunch & Dinner

DECEMBER 11TH – FRIDAY (DAY 7)

This is our last full day of adventure, but we have a real Bhutanese highlight ahead of us as today we hike to the Tigers nest a short drive takes us to Satsam Chorten

- Taktsang Monastery is a prominent Himalayan temple complex located high on a cliff face. We will hike for around 2 hours following a trail through a beautiful pine forest, many of the trees festooned with mosses and lichens, as we climb we pass fluttering prayer flags. Stopping for refreshments at the Taktsang Jakhang (cafeteria) we then walk a short distance until we finally see, Taktsang monastery. Built around Guru Rimpoche's meditation cave in 1684 by the Penlop of Paro Gyaltse Tenzin Rabgay, this incredible monastery clings to the edge of a sheer rock cliff plunging 900 meters into the valley below. Legend has it that Guru Padmasambhava, the tantric mystic who brought Buddhism to Bhutan, flew here on the back of a flying tiger, hence the name.
- For those who wish prayer flags can be hoisted near the monastery, and you may offer your prayers inside the monastery.
- After the hike one may also try out the traditional stone bath considered by many the best way to unwind after a long day in Bhutan. It is not only practised as a comforting soak but also a way to treat various ailments.

This evening over dinner, we will also enjoy our final meal while watching a traditional show incorporating many of the mask dances.

Meals: Breakfast, Lunch & Dinner

DECEMBER 12TH – SATURDAY (DAY 8)

Departure Day.

End of Tour

FLIGHT INFORMATION

We will need information regarding your flight details upon booking; all customers will be met and transferred from the airport upon arrival as is the norm for any of our Koryo other destinations tours.

Flights for Bhutan are two-fold as you will need to book a flight to any of the airports which either service Druk Airlines or Air Bhutan. These flights will then also need to be booked separately.

The national airline 'Drukair' operates. New Delhi & Kolkata in India, Kathmandu-Nepal and Bangkok-Thailand and Singapore. There is a flight from Paro to Bangkok via Kolkata and Bangkok to Paro via Kolkata every day, and there is a flight from Delhi to Paro via Kathmandu on Monday, Thursday & Saturday and Paro to Delhi via Kathmandu on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday and fly back the same. There is a flight from Singapore to Paro via Kolkatta on Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

We can if you need us to help with your Druk air reservations.

MONEY

All meals are included on your tour to Bhutan, meaning that you only need spending money for souvenirs, drinks and tips etc. which are not included in the trip cost.

My recommendation would be to bring cash, as it is easily exchanged into local currency. ATMs are available in Thimphu and Paro but not other areas.

The official currency of Bhutan is the Bhutanese Ngultrum (BTN). It is also possible to use Indian Rupees although larger denominations may be refused.

Most major currencies can be exchanged at the airport on arrival but as with many countries in the region make sure you have only clean, crisp and undamaged notes.

VISAS

For all travelling, to Bhutan, your Bhutanese visa must be applied for ahead of your travel plans through our partners and us in. Once Koryo receives your tour booking, and your deposit, we will use the supporting documents provided to obtain your visa ready for your adventure!

PACKING

ESSENTIALS

A day pack for carrying water, camera, snacks, jacket, essentials when exploring is handy.

Lightweight clothing: A mixture of covering lightweight clothing and some warm layers are recommended. It is best to check the weather and seasonal information before travelling. Please also bring clothing that covers arms and pants/skirts that go past the knee for entry into local religious sites.

Temperatures can get very cold overnight in some parts of Bhutan – it's essential to be prepared for changes in temperature throughout the day

Comfortable shoes for a full day walking/trekking: Closed-in shoes will help to protect your feet from cuts and scratches when walking through cities as well as bush/grasslands, and will also act as a barrier protection in rare cases against bites or stings

Wind and waterproof jacket

Sun protection: hat, sunscreen, sunglasses, and lip balm

In some areas, it will still be cold so something warm, such as a fleece, should be brought along.

RECOMMENDED

Personal medical kit - we recommend you carry items such as mild pain killers, electrolytes, Band-Aids and insect repellent.

Water bottle - we recommend a 1.5-litre capacity for which we can provide potable water. Bottled water is also available, but we prefer to use safe drinking water rather than contribute to polluting the environment.

Spare batteries - our trips have access to power to recharge batteries for phones and cameras most days, but we recommend you take extra batteries for your camera.

An electrical travel adapter plug

Inner sleep sheet/bag for added comfort during overnight stays.

Money belt

Torch or flashlight

Hand sanitizer

Neck pillow for those long, bumpy drives

OPTIONAL

Earplugs to protect against street noise and snorers will always be a plus.

A good book, journal and music player does help on the longer drives.

Images from home - during our trip there will be many opportunities for you to meet and talk with locals. One way to start any conversation is with pictures. We recommend that you bring some photos/postcards of your family, home, city or country where you live, animals peculiar to your country etc.
